The tall form of President ABBAHAM LINCOLN was next seen, and every sound was bushed as he read, slowly, distinctly, broken, their enemies retired and disap- and in a voice that reached every ear inclined to bear, the following short, pithy, characteristic address :

FELLOW CITIZENS! Four score and seven years ago, our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, couestved in liberty, and dedicated to the propsition that all men are ereated equal. Now, we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dediented, can long endure. We are met on a general battle-field of that war; we are met to dedicate a portion of it, as the final resting place of those who here gave their lives, that that oation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we we can not dedicate, we can not consecrate, we can not ballow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or to detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the sunfatished work that they have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us, here, to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they here gave the distinct a number of our men by disease; therefore that cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion. That we bere bigbly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain. That the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that the Government of the Victory at Chattanooga!

Despatches from Chattaneoga, dated Nov. 25, states that our arms have been engaged in a series of battles with Bragg, and are entirely victorious. Gen. Hooker ca. God save the Commonwealth!

L. F. ALBRIGHT, Sheriff drove the enemy from Lookout Mountain, and took possession, capturing about 2,500 prisoners. The enemy moved southwardly and occupied Missionary Ridge, near Chicamauga. They were again atacked, and after severe fighting were driven from the latter place and threwn against Gon. Sherman's forces, who opened on them, and they were forced to break, and sock safety in disorded flight down the western slope of the Ridge. We have captured not less than 5,000 prisoners, and perhaps 10.000. Gen. Hooker is trying to intercept the enemy at Reseville. Forty piecos of artillery were taken ; Hooker captured five boxes of new muskets on Lookout Mountain. We are in entire possession of the field, and have control of the railroad and river to Bridgeport. Our loss has not been definitely ascertained, but is stated at 300 killed and 2,500 wounded.

Official despatches received at Washington on the 26th state that Bragg is on the retreat, and our forces are in pursuit. The following has been received, addressed to Gen. Halleck :
