

The President's appearance was enthusiastically greeted, and at the close of his brief address he retired amid general and prolonged applause.