
SEVERELY BURNED.

A colored man named Samuel Watts, formerly a janitor of Dickinson college, Carlisle, was admitted to the hospital, having severely burned his arm and foot while sleeping near a pile of hot cinders in the vicinity of the Lochiel iron works, where he had gone to seek employment.
