

Lincoln's Gettysburg address, according to Mr. David Wills, who had charge of all the arrangements of the dedication of the Gettysburg Cemetery, was written at his home, by Mr. Lincoln, in the chamber to which he was assigned, the evening before it was delivered, on that great historic occasion. It was clearly an inspiration, coming from a great heart influencing a strong mind.